EFFECTS OF VIBRATION. Wounds Have Heen Healed by Sound Waves of a Violin.

A man was conveyed to a hospital In Paris suffering from an accident which resulted in a serious wound. This wound refused to heal, and all the various treatments applied to it failed to effect the desired end. The man was attacked from time to time man was attacked from time to time by violent paroxysms, and death ap-peared certain. At length the surgeon enlisted the services of a good violin player and treated the sufferer to a musical remedy. The patient's parox-ysms ceased, and from that time the wound began to heal. The violin play-ing was continued at intervals till re-covery was assured. covery was assured.

In another case the wound continued to suppurate despite all that could be done. The patient was calm and re-signed, but nothing could be done for the wound. The violin was called into requisition in this instance also, and the instrument was played close to the injured part, which was bared for the purpose. The surgeon soon observed change. The wound assumed a healthier appearance, and the process of healing began and progressed rap-

It is an undoubted fact that certain vibrations can effect cures, but the vi-brations must be strictly in accordance with the malady or nature of the wound. Some enthusiasts go so far as to assert that the character of individuals can be changed by the constant application of the proper vibration.-Pearson's Weekly.

How the Cobra Gives Warning. The most dangerous reptiles of India and Africa are the cobras. No snakes, not even rattlesnakes, are more dreaded, and with reason. As the rattle-snake warns the car by its significant "rattle," so the cobras warn the eye by the mode in which they expand the up per part of the body when irritated. This expansion is produced by a sudtion of the trade.

Dirty Patagonia.

"Patagonians are not giants, as som have supposed and as the geographies teach," said a man who has traveled. They are large in comparison with the other South American natives; that is all. Everything is relative, you know. But they are very fat. That is why they can stand the cold so well. I have seen Patagonian men and boys running around unclad while I was wrapped in warm garments, with the snow falling upon them in quantities and the wind blowing bitterly. They are kept warm by their fat-and dirt. Patagonia is one of the dirtiest places imaginable. Don't go there if you hate dirt. That is my advice to all who contemplate a journey to the jumping off place of South America."

The First False Hair.

In very early days, as now, the hair was sometimes thin, and it had to be eked out in various ways to make believe that nature had been spendthrift to all allke. About the first description extant of woman's hair speak plaited locks," known as "Gretchen braids" to us. To make these braids seem longer silk the color of the hair was braided in. Then they took to putting the braids in cases of silk, clongating them with all sorts of stuff till they looked like umbrellas in covers. The Chinese pigtail is a modification of this style.
